A Roller Banner is a self-standing, retractable banner stand, with a printed graphic panel. Roller banners can be rolled away into their own bases to protect the printed panel and makes transportation easy. When ready to use the printed panel is simply pulled up out of its base and hooked onto a pole.

Roll up banners are most effective when being used to attract attention, create awareness, advertise special offers to passing customers or as backdrops to exhibition stands or media events. A well designed roller banner delivers a strong visual message that can be easily seen from a distance.

Advertising Pop Up canopy and event tent, are a great tool for brand building or product marketing and are used in a variety of marketing campaigns. These products are used as a ticket booth, information booth, vendor tent, concession tent, sports tent and a variety of other outdoor advertising venues.

Flags are any type of banner that is used to promote a product or service. Advertising flags are also commonly used to announce an upcoming event such as a local festival or fair. Automotive dealers use these custom banners to inform customers where on the lot certain makes and models of cars are located. These flags for advertising are becoming an increasingly popular method of promoting among companies and large corporations.

Advertising flags come in all shapes and sizes, and have many uses. Most of these promotional banners come with custom printed graphics that are supplied by the customer.

Promotional merchandise is products branded with a logo or slogan and distributed at little or no cost to promote a brand, corporate identity, or event. Such products, are used in marketing and sales. They are given away or sold at a loss to promote a company, corporate image, brand, or event. They are often distributed as handouts at trade shows, at conferences, on sales calls and as bonus items in shipped orders.
